SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

EDITOR
SAYS—

It seems rather strange that big business corporations who fought Mr. Roosevelt before the election, have suddenly concluded to shorten hours of labor, increase pay, give cash bonuses to their workmen, pay dividends on stock. This all smells like they had a hunch that Mr. Roosevelt might ask for a law to tax their undivided profits, force them to declare their hidden wealth, or something of the sort. Wealthy people are not doing these things because they are philanthropist, but because they fear what might follow.

The Standard has engaged the services of Mr. W. O. Ross to place our subscription list in shape, solicit new subscribers and collect from those in arrears. He comes to us from Caruthersville where he gave most satisfactory service to the publisher of the Caruthersville Democrat-Argus. Mr. Ross will call on readers to collect from those in arrears or remove them from the mailing galleys. There is to be no strong arm tactics used, but if you care for the paper, straighten up your subscription and we will be glad to have you.

Hardy Williams is no more. He answered the roll call at 2:15 Friday morning. Everybody knew Hardy and no one knew him but to admire and respect him. He was a poor man, humble and grateful for the friendship of his fellow man. We knew him for the past 23 years and during all that time never heard him speak ill of any one, nor use harsh and unseemly language. He was an Odd Fellow and a good fellow. He was a cook of no mean ability, a nurse to the sick and crippled. He was ever ready to do a good deed whether it was with pay or without pay. He leaves behind few of this world's goods but many good deeds that will long be remembered.

Last Thursday was the 74th birth anniversary of S. A. Presson who lives near Bertrand. In honor of the occasion twenty friends and relatives surprised him by bringing well filled baskets of food and spread a banquet fit for a King or Mrs. Simpson. Among those who were present was an older brother, 78 and his wife 79. Mr. Presson states it was one of the happiest days of his life and one long to be remembered.

Siesteron is growing mighty fast and in order to deliver mail to homes in outlying districts it is absolutely necessary to have sidewalks, else the mail carrier will not deliver. Several homes have recently been built and sidewalks laid, but intervening lots have no sidewalks. That we are trying to say is: Isn't there some way that walks can be ordered by the city while the WPA fund is available and charge the difference to the lot owners, or encourage vacant lot owners to have the connections made?

Friday forenoon, with Rev. C. F. Collins at the wheel, the editor visited Caruthersville and had the pleasure of short visits with Charles Dorroh, formerly of the White Dorroh firm of Siesteron, with Ben Topper, of the Kohn store, O. L. Chilton of the Democrat-Argus, Bob Ward, and Dr. J. Markey, oculist. All were in good health except Bob Ward, everybody's friend, who has been quite ill for several months. He was feeling pretty good, his eyes as keen as ever, and he was exceptionally cheerful. Dr. Mackay tested our eyes for some new glasses in order that we could see more and say less we suppose. He has an equipment as good as any carried in any city. Rev. Collins visited some of the teachers of his race looking after adult education down there. Very little cotton was left in the fields between Siesteron and Caruthersville.

One year and one month has passed since Muriel Hurt was injured in a car wreck and since that time she has been bed fast except occasionally she is propped in a rocking chair. A visit with her Thursday found her cheerful and happy that we brought her a bunch of yellow rose buds. Last year she was taken to the football game, on an inflated mattress and this time to be taken to the game at Charleston if she will be permitted to have her car parked close in where she can see. Can you arrange for it Mr. Ellise?

Bookmaker Killed When Car Crashes Into Truck

Paul L. Castle, 38, a bookmaker of West Frankfort, Ill., was killed early Thursday evening when the 1934 Chevrolet, coach he was driving south on Highway 61 crashed into a trailer attached to a northbound truck. The accident happened 150 yards north of the New Madrid intersection.

Castle suffered a fractured skull, a broken left leg, and internal injuries. He was unconscious when passersby found him in the wreckage of his car and died without regaining consciousness.

Coroner L. A. Richards absolved Slim Wilborn, negro driver of the truck, of blame, and after taking a statement from R. C. Bryant of Osceola, Ark., the truck owner and an occupant of it, he released both men.

The accident happened at about 6:30. Bryant told Trooper Gordon B. Inglis that Wilborn had stopped the truck at a service station at the New Madrid intersection and had set off again toward Siesteron, where Bryant intended to leave a load of corn at the Scott County Milling Company mill. The truck was going only twenty miles an hour.

Bryant said he noticed an approaching car traveling rapidly and then felt a jolt as it crashed into the truck couplet and front part of the trailer.

Although the badly damaged Chevrolet plunged into a ditch, Castle was not thrown from it but lay slumped over behind the wheel. The trailer was detached and corn scattered over the highway.

Castle was positively identified after Coroner Richards found a card in his wallet had then called the West Frankfort police, and late Thursday night, Jed Murphy of West Frankfort, Castle's father-in-law, arrived in New Madrid to return the body to Illinois.

Castle was a native of Rhode Island and had lived in Illinois only a short time. His car had a Rhode Island license and his wallet contained an employment card from the Narragansett, R. I., Racing Association. Relatives said Castle was a bookmaker, chiefly at race tracks. He was on his way to New Orleans.

Bulldogs Preparing For Annual Turkey Day Tilt

The Bulldog eleven is making final preparations this week for its anticipated ruffling of the Blue Jays in Charleston Thursday afternoon.

Fans are well pleased with recent Siesteron performances, particularly with the Greer brothers' combination for lateral passing, used to such good advantage in the Kennett game here November 13; and if the Bulldogs find a few more excellent tricks to use, they will probably come true.

As the date for the twenty-sixth annual Thanksgiving game nears, a review of the teams' standings shows that Siesteron has won thirteen times; Charleston, nine; and the schools have tied three times, twice without scores and last year 6 to 6.

Secret Group To Report City Traffic Violations

Organization of a group of T-men to observe city motorists and report traffic violations was announced yesterday by the traffic planning board. The squad will be composed of at least twenty-five men whose identity will be known only to one person.

A member of the board explained that T-men will send to their director an "honest and unbiased description of what happened" in each instance of a traffic violation. Reports of the violation will be filed, and after a driver has committed two offenses his name will be placed on the police department record. He will be subject to pay a fine the first time afterward that a city officer finds him violating a traffic ordinance.

Immediately after the first offense is reported, however, the director will send the offender a letter explaining he was observed and requesting his co-operation in promoting safety. A more severe note will be mailed to second offenders.

MRS. LOUIS BOARDMAN FOUND DEAD SUNDAY

Mrs. Louis E. Boardman was found dead in bed Sunday morning at her home at the corner of Matthews and Tiger streets. Mr. Boardman discovered his wife had succumbed when he went to call her early in the morning.

The time of death was fixed at 4 a. m. and the cause as chronic myocarditis by Coroner H. J. Welsh, who conducted an informal inquest. Mrs. Boardman had also suffered from rheumatism.

Funeral services were held in the First Baptist church at 2:30 Monday afternoon. The Rev. Verne F. Oglesby, former pastor of the church, had charge. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery.

Mrs. Boardman was born at Watseka, Ill., on October 12, 1868, and had lived here many years.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Ed and Elzie

RAY GIBSON FACES TWO SUITS AFTER COLLISION

Trooper Melvin Dace has filed a complaint charging Ray Gibson with reckless driving and R. E. Rafferty has filed a civil suit for $250 damages as a result of an accident near the city dump Wednesday.

Witnesses said Rafferty was driving his oil truck to the dump to discard empty cans and that he signaled he intended to turn.

Gibson, who was driving behind him in a truck, started to pass Rafferty at the turn and the machines collided.

Rafferty asks $250 damages for repairs to his truck. Hearings of cases have been set for December 3 in Judge William S. Smith's court.

C. L. Blanton, Jr., went to Jefferson City Sunday for a conference of WPA officials. He expected to return home today.

Former Resident Beaten To Death With Hammer

Arnold Carroll, 45-year-old son of Judge and Mrs. William Carroll of Siesteron, was beaten to death with a clawhammer in his basement home in Wellston, a suburb of St. Louis, Sunday.

Dr. Luke B. Tiernan, the coroner, said Carroll's body was found inside the door with its skull crushed in six or seven places where the hammer had been driven through the back of the head. The hammer, lying beside the body, was covered with hair and blood.

An autopsy showed enough alcohol was in Carroll's body to suggest he might have been drinking. Both his eyes were blackened, apparently from blows.

Deputy sheriffs who were summoned to Carroll's home arrested for questioning Fred Eldridge, 66-year-old paperhanger and a close friend of Carroll, when they found him in the back yard of the home with blood on his hands.

Although he was too drunk to be questioned extensively, Eldridge told officers he got blood on his hands when he found the body at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. He was ordered held for a coroner's inquest, which is scheduled for 10 o'clock this (Tuesday) morning.

Officers did not learn immediately the hour of the attack. Neighbors said that when they saw Carroll before 10 o'clock he had no black eyes and that they saw him alive again at 10:30. Officers were not called until shortly before 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Dr. James D. Hicks, a physician who arrived at the scene ten minutes before the officers, said Carroll was not dead when he found him but succumbed while he was being examined. His death was caused by hemorrhage.

Authorities thought Eldridge might have soiled his hands while helping Dr. Hicks move Carroll's body a few minutes before he died. They were looking Monday for a man seen with Carroll and Eldridge Sunday morning. Carroll's brothers were in St. Louis.

Carroll was born at his family's home near McMullan and lived in and near Siesteron until fifteen years ago, when he went to St. Louis. There he worked as a painter and paperhanger. He had been separated for many years from his wife, the former Miss Kate Smith of Morehouse, whom he married in 1914.

Immediately after the inquest is concluded, Carroll's body will be brought here in the Welsh ambulance. Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Besides his parents, Carroll is survived by three brothers, Marvin, Ben, and William Carroll of Siesteron and a sister, Mrs. H. S. Hulen of St. Louis.

The organization of T-men sponsored by the traffic planning board should prove of great benefit to the community. Much needless violating of traffic regulations has been prevalent among the motorists of the city for some time and every method should be employed to stop it. I believe that the general public is beginning to realize its great share of the fight to decrease the accident toll. Education begins at home. To practice obedience to traffic regulations in the city will increase alertness on the highways. I also believe that the T-men will be well received and appreciated.

It is proposed to block off the parking lanes into spaces that will provide ample room for motorists to park their cars. This plan, like all others, is entirely dependent on the willingness of the motorists and the police to co-operate. The motorists will soon learn that proper parking habits will repay them with more room for parking and less danger of

Washington Comment

A French writer on world affairs, whose words carry weight to a company of readers so widely distributed that they may be called international without exaggeration, looks for a European war within a year. Now that the battle smoke of election has cleared somewhat, it is safe to refer to the President, regardless of whether or not we voted for him, and it may therefore be observed that Mr. Roosevelt is headed for a peace on the American continent which will be an example to the rest of the world. Europe seems to have chips on its many shoulders and probably nothing can be done about avoiding conflict there. Setting a good example on this side of the Atlantic is enough, considered as an achievement. There is small excuse of attempting to act as peacemaker in a territory where war is condemned in words and justified by acts as an outdoor sport; and still less excuse for actually getting into the game.

Speaking of letting Europe fight her own battles, a Representative in Congress has not forgotten those unpaid bills of almost twenty years ago. It is my view that this country should pay no attention to, or spend money in connection with, the marriage or coronation of King Edward of England. That may be going to extremes, but it does seem as though the people over there who got our money, at least could have delivered a load of hay or something like that on account, during the time that has passed since Europe was holding out the hat and handing out so much reassuring talk.

Perhaps it is thought that we do not know how to use money when we have it. There may be something in that, if the figures of J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are correct. He says that crime costs fifteen billion dollars a year. On the other hand, the Christmas Savings checks about to be distributed indicate that many have had Scotch ancestors, immediate or remote, which is by no means a bad thing. Three hundred and fifty million dollars were tucked away into the Savings Clubs during the past twelve months.

MOREHOUSE GIN WORKER

INJURED IN COMPRESSOR

Murrell Latham, 20-year-old employee of the Morehouse Gin Company, was resting in a Poplar Bluff hospital last week end after surviving a peculiar accident in which fellow workers said he might easily have lost his life.

Latham was watching the machine that compresses cotton into bales. Seeing a stick in the gin-bon cotton, he threw the trooper out of gear and to remove it. While he was still bending over, another gin employee, thinking the trooper was on the upward movement, put it in gear again, and the trooper pressed Latham's head and neck down ward. Associates thought he would be killed immediately, but a negro worker hoisted Latham's body so that his neck would not be bent too much, and when the trooper rose again, he was carried to a physician for first aid treatment.

A small part of Latham's chin bone was chipped off and a vertebra of his neck was snapped out of place. Internes at the Poplar Bluff hospital said he would recover.

Genius is supposed to be erratic, unreasonable and tempestuous, yet the papers reflect correctly the public when, almost without exception, they refer to her as "beloved".

In the face of such a tribute, details relating to the operatic triumphs of the days of her prime become merely the dry facts of stage history. She did not consider her talents too great to be dedicated to what Walt Mason called "the simple lays that soothe the soul". This year and for many years to come,

CHORUS GIVES PLEASING
RENDITION OF OPERETTA

Well executed dances, spirited singing, and competent handling of dialogue combined to make the high school glee clubs' presentation of "An Old Spanish Custom" Friday night a bright performance.

Mrs. Geraldine Young's choice of a modern, fast-moving musical comedy contributed much to the operetta's success, and under her direction, the cast sustained interest by keeping the piece's tempo swift.

Music of the operetta was lovely, especially the well-sung chorus numbers, and Miss Edie Howard's original and appropriate dances gave finish to the performance.

formance. Particularly outstanding were Ida Louise Cravens' and Eddie O'rear's handling of the Irish jig number and Miss Cravens' leadership in the French maid song and tap dance; the "Rich Man, Poor Man" trio of Nancy Ann Ponder, Esther Jane Greer, and Selma Becker, with its male chorus representing men of the well-known verse; and the candlelight chorus of women surprised by the masked night riders.

Costumes were rich in color and varied and well set off against Glenn Duncan's stage scene. The orchestra, under the direction of Reid Janin, played incidental music.

A matinee for grammar and junior high school children was given at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon.

MEET IN CAPE GIRARDEAU

On Thursday night approximately 168 dealers in and around Cape Girardeau attended the eighth dealer meeting held by the Standard Oil Company at the Marquette hotel. A. H. Bates acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the various speakers.

Immediately after the meeting opened a humorous short skit was presented to the dealers; this skit being built around some of the characters used in the newspaper advertising by the Standard Oil Company this past spring and summer. The characters portrayed were Lester Longbow, the village loafer; Elmer Cobb, the Standard dealer; Rudy Ripper, an English explorer; a famous movie actress; and an unknown motorist.

M. L. Hopkins of the St. Louis office spoke on the lessons learned from the "World's Greatest Road Test" which was conducted by the Standard Oil Company and its dealers this past summer. Those opposed to the New Deal were anxious to register a protest against it, so they returned their ballots promptly. Those over enthusiastic over the New Deal were just as anxious to defend it. I figure the Literary Digest got the votes of the two extremes.

We all know that a very small per cent of the people are hot or cold. Most of us are lukewarm. The lukewarm ballots were cast into the waste basket and those votes swung the election for Roosevelt. Had the Digest figured that anyone not returning a ballot would hardly vote for a change in the administration, they would not now be nursing such a hang-over.

Many citizens really wanted Roosevelt to be elected, but they felt he needed a little discipline. Those citizens would have voted and announced the Standard Oil Company 1936-37 winter gasoline. A new and unusual advertising campaign, using newspapers as a backbone, was then shown to the dealers by F. B. Kramer, advertising representative, who gave an illustrated talk showing these series of advertisements to help Standard dealers in their fall and winter sales program.

E. E. Wood, consumer sales promoter, then talked to the dealers on the Money Maker Club, the dealer organization which was formed last spring to help dealers increase sales. He outlined the methods used and the results obtained and further plans for the Money Maker Club.

Clark C. Smith, assistant manager, St. Louis, then gave a dramatic presentation of Standard service and what it means to the customer; and the business part of the meeting was then closed by J. W. Honomichl, assistant manager, St. Louis, who reviewed the entire program and discussed what it meant to Standard dealers.

The dealers were then entertained by Hank and Jake and their Westerners, and the Melody Girls from St. Louis, and a dutch lunch was served at this time.

The echoes of the recent election are dying down, but still the Literary Digest is puzzled. The readers and politicians, the editors themselves are non-puzzled. They say they do not understand why their poll gave Landon 381 electoral votes and he only got 8 in reality.

SIKESTON, MISSOURI

for Landón had not the Digest returns frightened them. Many felt that a landslide for Roosevelt was undesirable. They were amazed when the Digest made its announcement. They were afraid to elect Landón. They felt it would be a bad thing for the country to have to go through another period of experimentation. When the race promised to be a close one they voted for Roosevelt. Roosevelt has learned much from his experience as president and that experience was too valuable to be thrown away. The Digest poll did more to elect Roosevelt than all the political speeches made during the entire campaign. That is my guess—so I take it or leave it.

Efficient ways and means to preserve and increase this rapidly diminishing remnant are the objectives of this investigation and Blakey is appealing for help to find out just what a wild turkey eats. Every hunter, who bags his wild turkey this season, is urged to give the gizzard and crop (crop) for laboratory analysis of the contents. These may be sent in a small box or wrapped in heavy paper, to H. L. Blakey, Biological Survey, Federal Building, St. Louis, express collect or parcel post.

The other digestive organs also are valuable for parasite study, but these must be immediately placed in a weak solution of alcohol or formalin to preserve them.

Owing to the scarcity of wild turkeys, this is the only hope of obtaining enough specimens for adequate food analysis.

ANT ON HOLIDAYSIn many homes, the stuffing is considered only a little less important than the meat itself for the holiday dinner, because thereis so much sentiment connected with its choice for this occasion.
But what is the proper kind of stuffing?A New Englander, without a doubt, would choose a mist but not soggy bread dressing with plenty of minced onion and poutry seasoning for flavor. An Englishman would require sage for seasoning, and plenty of it. A southerner would insist that rice, rather than bread, should form the basis of the stuffing. And so it goes! Here are some favorite holiday stuffings suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist.SAUSAGE STUFFING
(For pork shoulder or crown)

1/2 pound bulk sausage

4 tablespoons grated onion

4 tablespoons chopped parsley

2 cups bread crumbs

Salt and pepper

Meat broth or water

Fry the sausage with the onion and parsley, stirring constantly until the meat is cooked enough so it separates into particles. Add the bread crumbs and seasonings, and enough liquid to make a moist dressing.The recipe given here is about the right size for a stuffed shoulder of lamb or a 12-rib crown roast of lamb, and will serve four to six persons. It may be doubled as many times as you desire, in order to make the required amount of stuffing. The proportion of ingredients should remain the same.APPLE AND RASIN STUFFING
(For pork shoulder or crown)

2 slices salt pork, diced

1/2 cup chopped celery

3/4 cup chopped onion

1 cup dry bread crumbs

1/4 cup chopped parsley

5 tart apples, diced

1/2 cup sugar

1/2 cup seedless raisins

Salt and pepper

Fry the pork until crisp, then add the diced apples. Sprinkle them with sugar, cover, and allow to cook slowly until the apples are tender. Add the chopped celery, onion, bread crumbs, and raisins. Pack into crown roast of pork. Lay bacon slices over the top and roast in a slow oven until the pork is done.RICE STUFFING
(For pork or lamb)

4 slices bacon

2 tablespoons chopped onion

1/2 cup chopped celery

Salt and pepper

Fry the pork until crisp, then add the onions and celery. Sprinkle them with salt and pepper, and allow to cook slowly until the onions are tender. Add the rice and raisins. Pack into crown roast of pork. Lay bacon slices over the top and roast in a slow oven until the pork is done.Tender, Young, Juicy Birds of firm white meat. Every one is and brown this, together with the chopped onion. Add celery, rice,

Pile lightly into cavity and let roast the basis of the stuffing. And so it goes! Here are some favorite bine with bread crumbs. Add spices and baking powder, and mix well. Add enough cold water to moisten and pack lightly into

IN KENNEDY DEMOCRATI had the pleasure this last week end of attending the annual meeting of the Missouri Press Association which convened in St.
Louis, and while the meeting was not up to the usual standard, an address by Dean Isidor Loeb, of Washington University, who was Dean of the School of Business and Public Administration at the University of Missouri when I was a student there, was more than enough to compensate for any shortcomings of the balance of the program.As an authority of government, especially state government, it is my opinion that Dean Loeb is unexcelled in this state. He knowledge of state administration and state finance is complete and his address called for serious consideration by the editors from every section of this state who are in a position to mold public opinion and point out to their readers voters who can bring about changes in our government—how our tax burden, which continues to mount with increasing services, can be lessened.

I am not worrying a lot about

While everyone realizes that the plan or program advanced by Dean Loeb will not be put into operation during the next few years, if ever, he did make it very clear that as long as the public demands the extravagant form of government that has grown up in this state, we can never have any reduction in taxes, but instead will have an ever-mounting tax burden.Briefly, Dean Loeb's talk resolves itself into a recommendation of consolidation of the smaller, thinly populated counties, as well as a consolidation of state administration, basing his recommendations on the fact that our system of both state and county governments is most antiquated, and put into effect during a "horse-and-buggy age," when the county seat was within a day's drive of any portion of the county it served.While the problem discussed by Dean Loeb is not applicable to Dunklin County in the same proportion it is to the majority of counties in the state, due to our large population and equally large assessment, one can easily imagine what a burden it must be to the tax payers of a small county like Carter with its population of less than 6,000, but which is compelled under the law to provide the same officers and the same type of administration as in the larger and more prosperous counties.Yet, I can imagine the howl that would go up should it be suggested that four of these smaller counties should be consolidated into one county with a population of approximately 35,000 (smaller than Dunklin), which would mean doing away at least three of the county seats, possibly four, and the relocation of a county seat.There is no doubt but what every taxpaying unit would be immeasurably better off, and there would be a more efficient administration, with a greatly reduced tax rate, but from my experience, the "public" is not interested in cost as long as it gets what it wants. And pride in one's county and community dictates that we hold to the old established way.

I am not worrying a lot about how to bring about a consolidation of counties, because I think this is a thing that will require years of education on the part of the people, and taxes will have to become even more burdensome and oppressive than they now are before the people would vote in favor of such a plan.Missourians, Osages, Sacs and Foxes, Ioways, Shawnees and Delawares, were the principal Indian tribes of the state of Missouri. The tribe was succeeded by the allied Sacs and Foxes who claimed Northeast Missouri and lived with the Ioways, Northwest Missouri. The Shawnee and Dela-ware came later and held lands in Southeast Missouri. The Sacs and Foxes relinquished their Missouri land by treaty in 1804, 1815 and 1826. The Osages ceded their vast claims in 1808 and 1825, while the Shawnees and Delawares made final cession in 1832.Turkey

EVANGELIST TO LECTURE
HERE ON PALESTINE

The Rev. Elmer F. Butler of Chicago, who has been traveling throughout the United States in a "Gospel house trailer" fitted with a loud-speaking system, will stop here Tuesday and Wednesday to give illustrated lectures at the First Baptist church. His talk on "Meeting the Changing Needs of New Palestine" will be given both evenings, beginning at 7:30.

Mr. Butler is a well-known evangelist and lecturer. He is a former newspaper man and a graduate of the Moody Bible Institute. He will stop here on the way to California, where he will spend the winter.

Speaking of his subject, Mr.

Butler said, "The return of the Jewish people to Palestine has brought about many changes and new development along educational, industrial, and agricultural lines. New projects in and outside the walls of Jerusalem are bringing the old and new city up to date. Palestine is also becoming the world's largest orange-growing country, 7,000,000 boxes of oranges having been grown there last year."

"These developments are a fulfillment of Bible prophecies, one of which is, 'Jerusalem shall be inhabited as cities without walls.' Christians believe that the rebuilding and the return of the Jew to Palestine point to the near return of Jesus Christ," Mr. Butler said. "The pictures and lecture will be given at the First Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Alfred Stovall on Matthews Avenue Monday night, November 30, for a pot luck supper. All members are requested to be present.

L. A. W. CLASS

The L. A. W. Class of the Christian church will meet at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, November 24, at the home of Mrs. Elmer Propst, 331 East Gladys street, who will be assisted by Mrs. T. F. Baker and Miss Adilda McCord. A program will be given during the social hour, and plans will be made at that time for a Christmas party. All members are urged to be present.

OLD AGE ASSISTANCE
WORKER ASSUMES DUTIES

Miss Elizabeth Moore on Monday assumed her duties as case worker in Scott and Mississippi counties for the Missouri old age assistance board. She will maintain headquarters in Charleston and will probably have an office in Benton as well.

Miss Moore will work under the supervision of Mrs. Ruth McGuire, who will serve as supervisor for the old age assistance board in eight Southeast Missouri counties, as well as district representative of the Missouri relief commission. Her office is located in Cape Girardeau.

Albert Rohlfing, who was to open district offices for the board here, is supervisor of eight western Southeast Missouri counties and has headquarters in Poplar Bluff.

Albert Rohlfing, who was to open district offices for the board here, is supervisor of eight western Southeast Missouri counties and has headquarters in Poplar Bluff.

John A. Montgomery, a prominent Stoddard county farmer, escaped serious injury early Wednesday morning when the car he intended to drive to Poplar Bluff left the Highway 60 viaduct over the Cotton Belt tracks at Dexter.

The accident happened when the lights of Montgomery's machine went out. The car plunged forty feet down an embankment, whirled around several times in a small space, and rested right side up.

Montgomery, unconscious from a blow on the head, was not found until two hours later. A physician treated him for minor injuries.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation of aid, assistance and sympathy in the sickness and death of our husband and father, Hardy Williams, which occurred Friday morning, November 20, 1936. The Family.

AS IT ALWAYS HAS BEEN

Two country lawyers, Conley Purcell and M. G. Gresham, met a coterie of City lawyers in four days trial in St. Louis, the past week and "licked 'em to a frazzle." They represented C. C. Cook, a Libourn, Missouri, merchant in which he was sued by Anthony Fulf, growing out of an automobile collision happening on the Herculaneum hill, the old road, more than two years ago, for the sum of $5,000.00.

The trial lasted four days and ended at about six P. M., Thursday of last week, when the jury brought in a verdict for defendant Cook. Cook has sued one John Spesia, who carried insurance for $10,000.00 for injuries received in the collision, as the Spesia automobile collided with his, Cooks automobile on the Herculaneum hill.

Purcell and Gresham are loud in the praise of the fairness and courtesy shown them by O'Neil Flanagan and Edward D. Franey of the firm of Hay & Flanagan, but do not say so much for the insurance lawyer. The Hon. Charley Hay himself did not take an active part in the trial of the lawsuit, but did appear in the Judges Chamber during the settling of some legal points. They say they never saw a more intelligent and more fair jury in any Court and the Judge, Judge Russell was kind, courteous and fair at all times.

The inspector made this discovery in the course of his routine examination of material that might carry this pest of shade and forest trees out of the area where it is now firmly entrenched. The shipment of such material from the New England States is banned by a Federal plant quarantine, enforced by the Department of Agriculture.

As a result of this enforcement the gipsy moth has succeeded only in one or two instances in pushing through the barrier zone running down the eastern part of New York State and the western part of Massachusetts and Connecticut, from Canada to Long Island Sound. Whenever the moths have succeeded in breaking through the barrier they have been eradicated.

Mrs. Lindsay Brown and son Lindsay, Jr., of Charleston were guests of Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. F. M. Sikes, Sunday afternoon.

FEDERAL INSPECTOR FINDS
GIPSY MOTHS IN ANTIQUES

A one-hoss shay, an old cannon, some statuary, and two iron chairs in the yard of an antique shop in New England are the newest hiding places for the gipsy moth to be discovered by plant-quarantine inspectors of the United States Department of Agriculture. The iron chairs—tagged for immediate shipment to a Western State—held eight live gipsy moth pupae, mostly females.

The

inspector made this discovery in the course of his routine examination of material that might carry this pest of shade and forest trees out of the area where it is now firmly entrenched. The shipment of such material from the New England States is banned by a Federal plant quarantine, enforced by the Department of Agriculture.

As a result of this enforcement

Mrs. L. B. Patterson returned home Friday from Cape Girardeau where she had been with her daughter, Mrs. John Marks Fuller, and infant grandson, Edward Marks, patients in the St. Francis Hospital. The child was born last Tuesday, November 17.

Mrs. Robt. Lillard of Arlington, Ky., was a week end guest of her daughter, Mrs. Chas. D. Matthews III, and her sister, Mrs. Anna Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Cunningham of Desloge and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dover visited Mr. and Mrs. Woolard Baker in Memphis, from Friday until Sunday evening.

TIME ROLLS ON

Another Thanksgiving is about here. This, by the way, is the 39th one we will have spent in S. E. Mo. Barring the 1918 holiday closely following the end of the World War, none offered more for which all should be thankful than this one.

Prosperity for farmers—millions in bonus for workers—peace with the world—opportunities for ability, courage and hard work—all in all from a business standpoint "everything is lovely and the goose hangs high".

BUT—

With all the rosy outlook none should imagine that prosperity and happiness grows on trees. Dreams and imagination are all right in their places but old fashioned hard work, physical or mental, is indispensable to any worthy endeavor.

THEREFORE—

The force is this store will continue the daily grind of serving the best furniture menu the markets afford—day in and day out—at prices our patrons can afford to pay, with sincere service thrown in at no extra cost.

WHAT'S AHEAD?

Things are going to happen during the next thirty days in this place I'm telling you. The fifteen employees around the store are not going to sit around and take it easy when this mammoth building is packed from pit to dome with thousands of dollars worth of Christmas merchandise. INDUCEMENTS will not only be offered through papers and mails and on the air. THEY WILL BE IN THE STORE READY FOR DELIVERY.

PAY US A VISIT

Our manner of advertising may not always please competitors and editors who get up alibis for them—but this store is not being conducted for their benefit. Therefore as long as buyers continue to come—and come again—"we should worry". Visit us early and often—bring your friends. Our store is not only a good place to buy furniture—it is becoming one of the show places of S. E. Mo.

ON THE SPOT

After gadding up and down S. E. Mo. for a generation, screaming for Charleston Blue Jays we now find our lot cast in the home town of their Bull Dog rivals. Like the young man with two sweethearts, "each seems most lovely when t'other dear charmer's away". Blue Jays looked good to us then—do yet—but what's a fellow goin' to do when quarterback Paul Bowman and Bobby Dover of the B. D. Team are the same good fishermen who pulled me to shore when the fishin' boat blew up and a game warden took me to a cleanin'. If you happen to hear cheers for Bull Jays and Blue Dogs Thursday you'll know who's all crossed up. May the best team win.

Hardy Williams, a lifelong resident of Sikeston, died of pneumonia at 2 o'clock Friday morning. He had been ill only since November 14. He was 67 years old.

Members of the I. O. O. F. lodge had charge of funeral services, which were held in the Odd Fellows hall at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Lawrence Ray, pastor of the Morehouse Baptist church, preached. Burial was in Memorial Park cemetery.

Parents and teachers should warn the youngsters of the things listed below so that they will remember them and be guided by them.

1. Never cross a street without looking in both directions to see if any cars are coming.

2. Always cross the street with the lights.

3. Never cross a street diagonally or in the middle of a block.

4. Never step into the street from behind a parked car or moving vehicle.

5. Never play in the streets.

6. Never "hook" rides on trucks or wagons.

TREE SEEDLINGS AVAILABLE AT FEDERAL NURSERY

Tree seedlings for forestry demonstration plantings, erosion control plantings, windbreaks, and general farm reforestation will be available to farmers for planting next spring, Leslie B. Broom, the New Madrid county agent, has announced. The seedlings may be obtained from the federal forest nursery at Licking.

Black locust, shortleaf pine, American elm, and silver maple may be had in lots of not less than 1000 each in case of the first two and 500 each of the last two. Mr. Broom said. Pine is limited to Southern Missouri within or near its natural range, while elm and maple are valuable chiefly as a windbreak in the prairie regions of north Missouri. The black locust, elm, and maple are $2 a thousand and the pine is $3.

Mr. Broom said applications should be sent at once to his office.

Mrs. James Arnold has been ill this week at her home on West Cleveland Street, as the result of an accident which occurred at her home early Friday morning. While cleaning an oil stove her arm slipped and she received a deep cut on her right wrist on a broken piece of china. The artery and leader in her wrist were cut. She was rushed to St. Mary's hospital in Cairo, Ill., where she received surgical treatment and her wrist was placed in a cast. She returned to her home in this city that afternoon. She was accompanied to the hospital by her physician, Dr. W. S. Love.

A very interesting wedding was solemnized Monday morning, November 16, at 8:00 at St. Henry's church, with the Rev. J. R. Weiberg officiating, when Miss Edna Lou Nicholson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Nicholson, was united in marriage to Herman W. Hart, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hart, both of this city.

For the occasion the bride wore a navy crepe dress and black accessories. Miss Appelena Pierceall and Tom Hart, brother of the groom, served as attendants. Miss Pierceall was attired in a brown crepe dress, with which she wore accessories of the same shade. Besides the attendants, there were 175 guests and friends at the wedding.

After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hart and Mr. Tom Hart enjoyed breakfast at the home of Miss Pierceall. Later they returned to the home of the bride's parents, where they and the immediate family enjoyed a dinner. They were entertained with a supper and dance at the home of the parents.

Mrs. Hart received her education at Bridges school and Charleston high school, and has been employed at the Charleston laundry the past four months. FOREST FIRES BURN AREA GREATER THAN ILLINOIS

Fires last year blackened more than 40,000,000 acres of forest land—an area larger than the State of Illinois. As a part of its fight to check such huge losses

the United States Forest Service is collecting and studying "fire weather" information from forest stations.

Latest weather-measuring devices, such as the thermograph, psychrometer, hygrothermograph, anemometer, meteorograph, and duff hygrometer, have been brought into use by the foresters so that they may ascertain the probability of fires and be prepared for emergencies.

This work was started in 1922 and the United States Forest Service credits its storehouse of information with the quick suppression of many forest fires.

MRS. IDA BELL GIPSON DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Ida Bell Gipson, the mother of Mrs. Ben Morrison and Mrs. Ina Dozier of Sikeston, died at St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau Friday night. Mrs. Gipson was taken to the hospital Thursday and underwent an operation the following afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted in the Morley Baptist church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Hillary Patterson had charge, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Moore. Interment was in the Morley cemetery.

Besides her husband and two daughters here, Mrs. Gipson is survived by three sons, Earle Gipson of St. Louis, Marvin Gipson of Bardwell, Ky., and Siebert Gipson of Benton; and one other daughter, Miss Marie Gipson of Morley. Four children—Elmer, Sidney, Pauline, and L. S. Gipson, Jr., are dead.

Out-of-town relatives and friends who attended Mrs. Gipson's funeral Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Earlie Gipson, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gipson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bryant and their baby, and Henry Johnson of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gipson, Mrs. Arthur Sampson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blandenham, Mr. Underwood and his daughter, and Glen Sampson of Bardwell, Ky.; and Mr. and Mrs. George Bolin, Mrs. Jose Weaver, and Mrs. Charles Carlew of Bloomfield.

Where The Farmer Spends It

The farmer should be well liked by the industrialist and business man. When you go through the mill section of a big city, you often wonder where all the goods go that are there manufactured.

Here is a partial answer. About one-third of the people of the United States live on farms or in villages directly dependent on agriculture.

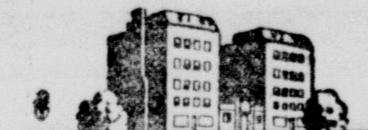

The income of these people rose 64% from 1932 to 1935. What did they do with it?

500,000 freight records from 16 railroads show that 1,340% more sewing machines, 421% more scales and parts, 309% more farm implement machinery, 303% more tractors and parts, 260% more refrigerators, and 220% more automobiles were shipped during the 3 year period ending December 1935 than the period ending December 1932.

During the late years city service clubs have become aware of the fact that the farmer is using more goods and are cultivating his friendship. Now and then a village merchant counters the efforts of the bigger center by some such advertising slogan as "The Friendly Farmer's Store."

MR. AND MRS. H. M. HOLMES ATTEND BANQUET

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Holmes, went to Bonne Terre Saturday night, where Mr. Holmes attended Masonic Lodge. The meeting and a banquet later, were held in honor of the official visit of the Grand Master of Missouri, George W. Walker, and Mr. Green, also a Grand Officer. The Bonne Terre Lodge, Samartian, 424, invited the Farmington lodge, 132 to the meeting and banquet. Mrs. Holmes attended the banquet which was held after the official work was completed.

MAN KILLED BY TRUCK WEDNESDAY IS IDENTIFIED

The man killed by a truck on Highway 60 near Charleston late Wednesday afternoon was identified Saturday as James Brown of Gamaliel, Ky.

Brown, who was about 54 years old, had been in Southeast Missouri picking cotton and shortly before his death had worked near Lilbourn. He was killed instantly when a coal truck driven by Chester Dobbs of Sikeston hit him as he walked along the highway.

A man who advertised recently for a wife received 1,300 applications. It's remarkable that so many women should want to seen, and that's probably why.

Washington Comment

A French writer on world affairs, whose words carry weight to a company of readers so widely distributed that they may be called international without exaggeration, looks for a European war within a year. Now that the battle smoke of election has cleared somewhat, it is safe to refer to the President, regardless of whether or not we voted for him, and it may therefore be observed that Mr. Roosevelt is headed for South America, in the interest of a peace on the American continent which will be an example to the rest of the world. Europe seems to have chips on its many shoulders and probably nothing can be done about avoiding conflict there. Setting a good example on this side of the Atlantic is enough, considered as an achievement. There is small excuse of attempting to act as peacemakers in a territory where war is condemned in words and justified by acts as an outdoor sport; and still less excuse for actually getting into the game.

Speaking of letting Europe fight her own battles, a Representative in Congress has not forgotten those unpaid bills of almost twenty years ago. It is his view that this country should pay no attention to, or spend money in connection with, the marriage or coronation of King Edward of England. That may be going to extremes, but it does seem as though the people over there who got our money, at least could have delivered a load of hay or something like that on account, during the time that has passed since Europe was holding out so hard and handing out so much reasoning talk.

Perhaps it is thought that we do not know how to use money when we have it. There may be something in that, if the figures of Edger Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are correct. He says that crime costs fifteen billion dollars a year. On the other hand, the Christmas Savings checks about to be distributed indicate that many have had Scotch ancestors, immediate or remote, which is by no means a bad thing. Three hundred and fifty million dollars were tucked away into the Savings Clubs during the past twelve months.

Having traversed the span of three quarters of a century, Mme. Schumann-Heink has fulfilled the words of Longfellow and "moved a little nearer to the master of all music, to the master of all singing". Genius is supposed to be erratic, unreasonable and tempestuous, yet the papers reflect correctly the public when, almost without exception, they refer to her as "beloved".

In the face of such a tribute, details relating to the operatic triumphs of the days of her prime become merely the dry facts of stage history. She did not consider her talents too great to be dedicated to what Walt Mason called "the simple lays that soothe the soul". This year and for many years to come, those who kept Christmas will miss the round, deep voice that spread afar and delivered to millions of listening ears, the message of "Holy Night".

The oddities in the week's news include the case of a man in Hungary who was compelled by custom to send out challenges for about fifty duels, all to be fought within two days. A few weeks ago, a person who talked Democratic in this country was likely to have a half-hundred duels on his hands. Likewise, anyone who talked Republican stood a chance of being called out as many times upon the field of honor. Tempers have cooled considerably. As to the challenges mailed by the Hungarian, very likely he hopes that the addresses have the bad luck of a Washington woman who just received a letter written by her down on the same town, asking for a date.

Turkeys are being bred down to a size and form in which they can be put more easily into small modern ovens. Substituting the man with a swelled head for the turkey, and a hat for the oven, there is presented a problem that might well be passed along to the turkey breeders for solution.

MOREHOUSE GIN WORKER INJURED IN COMPRESSOR

Murrell Latham, 20-year-old employee of the Morehouse Gin Company, was resting in a Poplar Bluff hospital last week end after surviving a peculiar accident in which fellow workers said he might easily have lost his life.

Latham was watching the machine that compresses cotton into bales. Seeing a stick in the ginned cotton, he threw the tromper out of gear and to remove it. While he was still bending over, another gin employee, thinking the tromper was on the upward movement, put it in gear again, and the tromper pressed Latham's head and neck down ward.

Associates thought he would be killed immediately, but a negro worker hoisted Latham's body so that his neck would not be bent too much, and when the tromper rose again, he was carried to a physician for first aid treatment.

A small part of Latham's chin bone was chipped off and a vertebra of his neck was snapped out of place. Internes at the Poplar Bluff hospital said he would recover.

At Shade Switch, seven miles west of Caruthersville, Buster King, 23, an employee of the Crews Reynolds Gin Company, was seriously hurt Thursday when he became entangled in gin machinery.

The left side of his face, frontal bone, eye, and jaw were crushed, and he suffered a severe scalp wound on the back of his head and the loss of teeth on the left side of his mouth. He was rushed to a Memphis hospital.

"THANKS A MILLION"

FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

America has bought 1,130,000 Chevrolets during the past twelve months, thereby giving Chevrolet the greatest year in its history and the greatest measure of buyer preference it has ever enjoyed.

The builders of Chevrolet are thankful for many things, but most of all for the warm friendship of the American people.

And so again at this Thanksgiving season we say, "Thank you, America," for you have given Chevrolet a measure of good-will without parallel in the annals of modern industry.

Consider, for a moment, all that you have done to inspire Chevrolet's appreciation during the past twelve months:

You have purchased 1,130,000 Chevrolets; you have made Chevrolet your favorite car for the seventh time in the past ten years; you have given Chevrolet strong preference in every section of the

RENDITION OF OPERETTA

Well executed dances, spirited singing, and competent handling of dialogue combined to make the high school glee clubs' presentation of "An Old Spanish Custom" Friday night a bright performance.

Mrs. Geraldine Young's choice of a modern, fast-moving musical comedy contributed much to the operetta's success, and under her direction, the cast sustained interest by keeping the piece's tempo swift.

Music of the operetta was lovely, especially the well-sung chorus numbers, and Miss Edna Howard's original and appropriate dances gave finish to the performance.

formance. Particularly outstanding were Ida Louise Cravens' and Eddie Orear's handling of the Irish jig number and Miss Cravens' leadership in the French maid song and tap dance; the "Rich Man, Poor Man" trio of Nancy Ann Ponder, Esther Jane Greer, and Selma Becker, with its male chorus representing men of the well-known verse; and the candlelight chorus of women surprised by the masked night riders.

Costumes were rich in color and varied and well set off against Glenn Duncan's stage scene. The orchestra, under the direction of Reid Jann, played incidental music.

STANDARD OIL DEALERS
MEET IN CAPE GIRARDEAU

On Thursday night approximately 168 dealers in and around Cape Girardeau attended the eighth dealer meeting held by the Standard Oil Company at the Marquette hotel. A. H. Bates acted as master of ceremonies, introducing the various speakers.

Immediately after the meeting opened a humorous short skit was presented to the dealers; this skit being built around some of the characters used in the newspaper advertising by the Standard Oil Company this past spring and summer. The characters portrayed were Lester Longbow, the village loafer; Elmer Cobb, the Standard dealer; Rudy Ripper, an English explorer; a famous movie actress; and an unknown motorist.

M. L. Hopkins of the St. Louis office spoke on the lessons learned from the "World's Greatest Road Test" which was conducted by the Standard Oil Company and its dealers this past summer.

Mr. F. C. Dickerson, special tire promoter from the St. Louis office, next spoke on getting the car ready for winter, pointing out the things which were necessary to be done on the car in order that it would operate properly through the winter.

Then the meeting was taken over by C. S. Reiber, dealer sales promoter of the St. Louis office, who gave an illustrated talk on the manufacture of Iso-Vis "D"

The echoes of the recent election are dying down, but still the Literary Digest is puzzled. The readers and politicians, the editors themselves are non-puzzled. They say they do not understand why their poll gave Landon 381 electoral votes and he only got 8 in reality.

I am neither a politician nor statistician. I think I know a little about people and I have an explanation. If the specialists fail what can one expect of a layman? This is what I think. Contented people like contented cows do not bellow and moo around the meadow. If they are satisfied they go quietly about their business, content to leave well enough alone. Many of the ballots were mailed to people who were neither enthusiastic about the New Deal nor bitter against it. They simply threw their ballots into the waste basket and voted for Roosevelt on election day. They figured things could be a lot worse and they had better leave well enough alone.

Those opposed to the New Deal were anxious to register a protest against it, so they returned their ballots promptly. Those over enthusiastic over the New Deal were just as anxious to defend it. I figure the Literary Digest got the votes of the two extremes.

We all know that a very small per cent of the people are hot or cold. Most of us are lukewarm. The lukewarm ballots were cast into the waste basket and those votes swung the election for Roosevelt. Had the Digest figured that anyone not returning a ballot would hardly vote for a change in the administration, they would not now be nursing such a hang-over.

Many citizens really wanted Roosevelt to be elected, but they felt he needed a little discipline. Those citizens would have voted

EveningsWILD TURKEY FLOCKS
IN 28 OZARK COUNTIES

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—Early-day

Missourians probably strolled out into the woods in all parts of the state and killed a wild turkey for their Thanksgiving dinner, but the 1936 wild-turkey hunter, seeking his trophy during the December open season, will find himself limited probably to less than thirty counties in the Ozark region, according to Harold L.

Blakey, assistant conservationist of the U. S. Biological Survey, who is making an extensive study of Missouri's wild-turkey remnant.

Although there are probably a few others, he has definite records of wild turkey flocks in only twenty-eight counties of the Ozark region.

They are Barry, Bollinger, Butler, Carter, Christian, Crawford,

Dent, Douglas, Franklin, Gasconade, Howell, Iron, Jefferson, Madison, Maries, McDonald, Oregon, Ozark, Phelps, Raynold, O'Reilly, St. Francois, Ste. Genevieve, Shannon, Stone, Taney, Washington and Wayne.

Effective ways and means to preserve and increase this rapidly diminishing remnant are the objectives of this investigation and Blakey is appealing for help to find out just what a wild turkey eats. Every hunter, who bags his wild turkey this season, is urged to give the gizzard and crop (crop) for laboratory analysis of the contents. These may be sent in a small box or wrapped in heavy paper, to H. L. Blakey, Biological Survey, Federal Building, St. Louis, express collect or parcel post.

The other digestive organs also are valuable for parasite study, but these must be immediately placed in a weak solution of alcohol or formalin to preserve them.

Owing to the scarcity of wild turkeys, this is the only hope of obtaining enough specimens for adequate food analysis.

EveningsWILD TURKEY FLOCKS
IN 28 OZARK COUNTIES

St. Louis, Nov. 23.—Early-day

Missourians probably strolled out into the woods in all parts of the state and killed a wild turkey for their Thanksgiving dinner, but the 1936 wild-turkey hunter, seeking his trophy during the December open season, will find himself limited probably to less than thirty counties in the Ozark region, according to Harold L.

Blakey, assistant conservationist of the U. S. Biological Survey, who is making an extensive study of Missouri's wild-turkey remnant.

Although there are probably a few others, he has definite records of wild turkey flocks in only twenty-eight counties of the Ozark region.

They are Barry, Bollinger, Butler, Carter, Christian, Crawford,

Ellis Alcorn recently sold a grey mule to R. D. Clayton for $240 which shows good mule meat brings a good price.

A fox terrier puppy shipped from St. Louis to Muriel Hurt was duly received and she is happy to have been remembered by the donor though his name did not appear on the tag.

It is reported that at a recent football game in Tennessee an excited fan hugged a girl so hard he broke one of her ribs. It is to be wondered whether this is bona fide news or subtle propaganda to get more girls to attend football games.—St. Louis Star-Times.

Thanksgiving Day is not around the corner, it is in sight. Each one of us have a lot to be thankful for. For good times and for good friends that go so far to make happiness. For one we are more than thankful for the blessings bestowed upon us and here-by make our acknowledgment to God.

Monday of this week was the first anniversary of the Sikeston sewing and weaving room and in honor of the occasion a spendid meal consisting of chicken and dressing and all the trimmings that go with such a good foundation, was served to a few invited guests and workers connected with the stock room and the supply room. Great V slices of pumpkin pie was served as dessert. It was our pleasure to be one of the invited guests an honor that we duly appreciated.

No, we can't tell you when she will be home. We are getting anxious ourselves as the cold winter weather rapidly approaches. Last Tuesday a telegram was sent to Washington as follows: "What has become of your mother and my wife?" An hour later this was received: "Party at hair dressers, this morning and fat and sassy." And there you are. If she has left us for good, we would like to know it, and if she hasn't, why, we would like to know it. Anyway, we hope the sea voyage to South America ports has improved her health.

As far as I know the newspaper men of Missouri wear no particular brand of hat. They never go high-hat toward anybody. The only one I know who wears a grey derby is C. L. Blanton, Sr., of Sikeston. Col. Woods of Roila always wears the latest style of Stetson and I happen to know he has a 1936 model tall silk hat for special occasions. Doug Meng wears a broad-brimmed, flat-topped black hat of the most expensive make. The late Walter Williams in the summer time wore a beautiful, fine-woven hat of Manila weave presented to him on one of his trips. Every newspaper man of ten years and more service in Missouri will remember the J. West Goodwin hat. It was a tall, white stovepipe, with a bell top. He wore this hat fifty years ago when I first met him and I never saw him without a hat of this kind. Dwight Brown likes fine hats but always buys the latest model and never a hat that is out of the style line. I think his wife must buy his hats for him. I suspect Ed Swaine of having a silk hat or at least a derby, but he never shows up at press meetings with anything but the gray felt like most of us wear, or a Panama. Ed Watson also has a silk hat and wears it with his tailed coat on occasions. When he wears his colonel's uniform with ten pounds of gold braid he has a gold bordered cap to match. Personally I have always preferred and worn the Stetson brand marked XXX Beaver. I have always wanted the XXXX Beaver, but never could persuade myself to meet the price. Our agreement at home is that I may spend as much for a hat as the Boss spends for hers and no more. Once I went into a store and asked for the best Panama they had. When the clerk said it was seventy-five dollars, I said I just wanted to look at it.—Wm. Southern, Jr., in Independence Examiner.

HUNTERS BAG TWO TURKEYS IN TOWN

Employees of the H. & H. grocery went hunting Monday morning and bagged two large turkeys. It wasn't illegal though, because the turkeys belonged to Robert Mow and weren't strictly wild, anyway.

The grocery porter was moving a crate of fifteen turkeys in the alley behind the store Monday morning when a turkey kicked out a loose slot and flew away. Another followed him before the gap could be closed.

The porter had thirteen birds safely in a crate, but another was perched on a cable high above the alley and still another was sitting in a tree in the front yard of Mrs. Ada Lennox' home, 214 North Kingshighway. Men had to shoot their heads off to get them down.

NEGRO FINED FOR SELLING LIQUOR WITHOUT LICENSE

Eddie Winters, a negro, was fined $25 in police court Monday when he pled guilty to selling liquor without a city license. He paid the fine.

On Monday, Judge Brown Jewell also fined Charles Smith, negro, $8 for gambling and Will Adams, John Gaddis, and L. D. Jines, $10 for being drunk.

NEGRO DIES IN MOVING CAR: CAUSE NOT KNOWN

A young negro thought to be Albert Jones died Sunday night in the automobile in which he was riding here from Charleston with Walter Montjoy and the Rev. Hill negroes.

The two found their companion dead when they stopped at A. D. Redd's place in Tin Can Alley. They notified officers, who had Jones' body taken to the Welsh funeral home.

The cause of death was thought to have been acute indigestion, but on Monday, Harvey Johnson performed an autopsy, removing the heart and contents of Jones' stomach. They will be sent to Jefferson City for analysis by the state highway patrol. Mr. Johnson said Jones' heart was enlarged.

Montjoy and Hill, who did not know the dead negro's name, said they met him at Hudson's cafe Saturday evening and spent the rest of the night with him, "riding around" in Montjoy's car and stopping for time at The Ramblers.

Paul Jones' negro night club south of town. On Sunday, Montjoy said, the three went to Wolf Island to visit his mother, and while they were eating a lunch which included ham, Jones said always gave him indigestion. All three ate the ham, however, and Montjoy and Hill felt no ill effects.

Montjoy, Hill, and Jones started home early in the evening, Jones sitting alone in the rear seat, and even before they reached Charleston, Jones complained of stomach pains. He fell back after they had stopped in Charleston for gasoline, but Montjoy and Hill thought they would let him rest until they arrived here.

Acquaintances here said they knew the man only as "Shorty".

He was about 25 years old and during the last season he made a crop on Ernest Grant's farm at McMullin. He often complained of suffering from indigestion, they said.

Jones' relatives live in St. Louis. No date has been set for the funeral.

is so much sentiment connected with its choice for this occasion. But what is the proper kind of stuffing?

A New Englander, without a doubt, would choose a mist with not soggy bread dressing with plenty of minced onion and poultry seasoning for flavor. An Englishman would require sage for seasoning, and plenty of it. A southerner would insist that rice, rather than bread, should form the basis of the stuffing. And so it goes! Here are some favorite holiday stuffings suggested by Mrs. S. Wilson, home economist.

Sausage Stuffing

1/2 pound bulk sausage
4 tablespoons grated onion
4 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 cups bread crumbs
Salt and pepper
Meat broth or water

Cook the rice in boiling salted water until tender. Drain and remove excess starch by letting cold water run over it. Dice the bacon and brown this, together with the chopped onion. Add celery, rice, mushroom pieces and green pepper. Season with salt and pepper. Pile lightly into cavity and let it stand with the meat.

Spiced Cranberry Stuffing

(For pork shoulder or crown)

2 cups ground (uncooked) cranberries

2 cups fine dry bread crumbs

1 cup sugar

3/4 teaspoon salt

3/4 teaspoon cinnamon

3/4 teaspoon nutmeg

2 teaspoons baking powder

Cold water

Sweeten cranberries and combine with bread crumbs. Add spices and baking powder, and mix well. Add enough cold water to moisten and pack lightly into cavity in pork shoulder or crown. Roast meat as usual.

PAUL JONES PARAGRAPHS
IN KENNETH DEMOCRAT

I had the pleasure this last week end of attending the annual meeting of the Missouri Press Association which convened in St. Louis, and while the meeting was not up to the usual standard, an address by Dean Isidor Loeb, of Washington University, who was Dean of the School of Business and Public Administration at the University of Missouri when I was a student there, was more than enough to compensate for any shortcomings of the balance of the program.

As an authority of government, especially state government, it is my opinion that Dean Loeb is unequalled in this state. He knowledge of state administration and state finance is complete and his address called for serious consideration by the editors from every section of this state who are in a position to mold public opinion and point out to their readers—voters who can bring about changes in our government—how our tax burden, which continues to mount with increasing services, can be lessened.

While everyone realizes that the plan or program advanced by Dean Loeb will not be put into operation during the next few years, if ever, he did make it very clear that as long as the public demands the extravagant form of government that has grown up in this state, we can never have any reduction in taxes, but instead will have an ever-mounting tax burden.

Briefly, Dean Loeb's talk

reduced itself into a recommendation of consolidation of the smaller, thinly populated counties, as well as a consolidation of state administration, basing his recommendations on the fact that our system of both state and county governments is most antiquated, and put into effect during a "horse-and-buggy age," when the county seat was within a day's drive of any portion of the county it served.

Misourians, Osages, Sacs and Foxes, Iowas, Shawnees and Delawares, were the principal Indian tribes of the state of Missouri. The tribe was succeeded by the allied Sacs and Foxes who, claimed Northeast Missouri, and later with the Iowas, Northwest Missouri. The Shawnee and Dela-warens came later and held lands in Southeast Missouri. The Sacs and Foxes relinquished their Missouri land by treaty in 1804, 1815 and 1825. The Osages ceded their vast claims in 1808 and 1825, while the Shawnees and Delawares made final cession in 1832.

to bring about a consolidation of counties, because I think this is a thing that will require years of education on the part of the people, and taxes will have to become even more burdensome and oppressive than they now are before the people would vote in favor of such a plan.

John A. Montgomery, a prominent Stoddard county farmer, escaped serious injury early Wed-

The accident happened when the lights of Montgomery's machine went out. The car plowed forty feet down an embankment, whirled around several times in a small space, and rested the right side up.

Montgomery, unconscious from a blow on the head, was not found until two hours later. A physician treated him for minor injuries.

Purcell and Gresham are loud in the praise of the fairness and courtesy shown them by O'Neil Flanagan and Edward D. Franey of the firm of Hay & Flanagan, but do not say so much for the insurance lawyer. The Hon. Charley Hay himself did not take an active part in the trial of the lawsuit, but did appear in the Judges Chamber during the settling of some legal points. They say they never saw a more intelligent more fair jury in any Court and the Judge, Judge Russel was kind, courteous and fair at all times.

HARDY WILLIAMS DIES OF PNEUMONIA; RITES SUNDAY

Hardy Williams, a lifelong resident of Sikeston, died of pneumonia at 2 o'clock Friday morning. He had been ill only since November 14. He was 67 years old.

About 23 out of every 100 persons killed by automobiles in the United States are children under the age of 15 years. Accidents kill more children in this age group than diseases. Think of it!

Parents and teachers should warn the youngsters of the things listed below so that they will remember them and be guided by them.

1. Never cross a street without looking in both directions to see if any cars are coming.

2. Always cross the street with the lights.

3. Never cross a street diagonally or in the middle of a block.

4. Never step into the street from behind a parked car or moving vehicle.

5. Never play in the streets.

6. Never "hook" rides on trucks or wagons.

TREE SEEDLINGS AVAILABLE AT FEDERAL NURSERY

Tree seedlings for forestry demonstration plantings, erosion control plantings, windbreaks, and general farm reforestation will be available to farmers for planting next spring, Leslie B. Broom, the New Madrid county agent, has announced. The seedlings may be obtained from the federal forest nursery at Licking.

Black locust, shortleaf pine, American elm, and silver maple may be had in lots of not less than 1000 each in case of the first two and 500 each of the last two. Mr. Broom said. Pine is limited to Southern Missouri within or near its natural range, while elm and maple are valuable chiefly as windbreaks in the prairie regions of north Missouri. The black locust, elm, and maple are $2 a thousand and the pine is $3.

Mr. Broom said applications should be sent at once to his office.

NEW MADRID NEGRO STABBED TO DEATH

Lester Williams, a 26-year-old negro, was found dead early Friday morning on the porch of a small building in the New Madrid negro addition, a deep stab wound in the right side of his chest. Coroner L. A. Richards said he had died of a stab.

Officers were trying to find the negro brothers with whom Williams was seen Thursday night. Williams was a sharecropper and lived near New Madrid.

BOY CAUGHT NEAR HERE NOT INVOLVED IN KILLING

Chester Augustine, the 18-year-old youth Memphis officers and Trooper John Tandy captured at Wolf Island November 14, was turned over to Memphis authorities Friday after investigation by Little Rock, Ark., police failed to implicate him in the robbery murder of M. D. Matkin, a Little Rock store manager, on November 7.

At the time of his arrest, Augustine was wanted for escaping from the Tennessee industrial school for boys. He will be questioned about eight recent Kroger store robberies in Memphis.

CHARGED WITH KILLING MADRID FISH PEDDLER

A first degree murder charge was filed in New Madrid Thursday against Bill Abbott, who was arrested at Lonoke, Ark., after a five-day search by officers. Abbott is accused of killing Theodore Kellens, a fish peddler, in a New Madrid riverfront cafe November 14.

Deputy Sheriff Will Smart, who returned Abbott to New Madrid, said he was taken in custody after authorities received a note from a farm girl of near Lonoke saying Abbott had told her he murdered a man and was hiding.

Earl McTheny and "Shorty" Harris were arrested Thursday on charges of helping Abbott escape.

FOREST FIRES BURN AREA GREATER THAN ILLINOIS

Fires last year blackened more than 40,000,000 acres of forest land—an area larger than the State of Illinois. As a part of its fight to check such huge losses the United States Forest Service is collecting and studying "fire weather" information from forest stations.

Latest weather-measuring devices, such as the thermograph, psychrometer, hygrometer, anemometer, meteorograph, and duff hygrometer, have been brought into use by the foresters so that they may ascertain the probability of fires and be prepared for emergencies.

This work was started in 1922 and the United States Forest Service credits its storehouse of

MRS. IDA BELL GIPSON DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. Ida Bell Gipson, the mother of Mrs. Ben Morrison and Mrs. Ina Dozier of Sikeston, died at St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau Friday night. Mrs. Gipson was taken to the hospital Thursday and underwent an operation the following afternoon.

Funeral services were conducted in the Morley Baptist church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon. The Rev. Hillary Patterson had charge, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Moore. Interment was in the Morley cemetery.

Besides her husband and two daughters here, Mrs. Gipson is survived by three sons, Earlie Gipson of St. Louis, Marvin Gipson of Bardwell, Ky., and Siebert Gipson of Benton; and one other daughter, Miss Mary Gipson of Morley. Four children—Elmer, Ernestine, Pauline, and L. S. Gipson, Jr., are dead.

Out-of-town relatives and friends who attended Mrs. Gipson's funeral Sunday included Mr. and Mrs. Earlie Gipson, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gipson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bryant and their baby, and Henry Johnson of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Gipson, Jr., are dead.

During the late years city service clubs have become aware of the fact that the farmer is using more goods and are cultivating his friendship. Now and then a village merchant counters the efforts of the bigger center by some such advertising slogan as "The Friendly Farmer's Store."

MAN KILLED BY TRUCK WEDNESDAY IS IDENTIFIED

The man killed by a truck on Highway 60 near Charleston late Wednesday afternoon was identified Saturday as James Brown of Gamaliel, Ky.

Brown, who was about 54 years old, had been in Southeast Missouri picking cotton and shortly before his death had worked near Lilliburn. He was killed instantly when a coal truck driven by Chester Dobbs of Sikeston hit him as he walked along the highway.

A man who advertised recently for a wife received 1,300 applications. It's remarkable that so many women should want to marry a man they had never seen, and that's probably why.
